A: You can use strtok() to split the line: char* pCh; pCh = strtok(line, " "); while (pCh!= NULL) { printf("%s ", pCh); pCh = strtok(NULL, " "); } Note that pCh is a character pointer, not a string (or std::string). You will have to make sure to free it afterwards. The while loop will keep looping until " " appears again in the string passed to strtok(). News Published August 11, 2018 Belleville Mayor Sherman-Claiborne Expected to Run for Congress Mayor Leslie R. Sherman-Claiborne, a Democrat who has been serving as Belleville Mayor since 2012, is expected to announce his bid for the 2018 election for a United States House of Representatives seat being vacated by incumbent Democrat John Conyers, II. Sherman-Claiborne was the Democratic nominee in the Nov. 2, 2016 election for the 11th Congressional District seat that Conyers is vacating. He finished second behind incumbent Republican incumbent David Joyce, who beat him by 1,690 votes. Under Illinois law, a vacancy in Congress must be filled by a special election held about 90 days after the vacancy occurs. Other candidates also can be on the ballot. "I am committed to serving the constituents of the city that I love, and I am excited to run for Congress again," Sherman-Claiborne said in a press release. "My record as a progressive mayor, a local leader who listens to the people, and a proven leader on tough issues shows that I have the ability to represent the interests of all our neighborhoods," Sherman-Claiborne continued. "As a member of Congress, I will work hard to listen to all voices, and to find ways to move our country forward, while protecting the rights of all Americans, including those of immigrants," he stated. The deadline to file for a special election is September 14. The election will be held no later than November 6. A December 2017 U.S. House vacancy committee meeting in Washington D.C. raised speculation that Sherman-Claiborne might seek the special election for Conyers' seat. However, Sherman-Claiborne declared that

A gas sampling method, using samplers with Tenax cartridges and adsorbent traps, for the simultaneous measurement of volatile organic compounds (VOCs) in the gas phase and on surfaces in the automobile interior and exterior has been developed. We measured 16 VOCs, namely, benzene, toluene, ethylbenzene, o-xylene, m-xylene, n-xylene, o-dichlorobenzene, p-dichlorobenzene, ethylhexane, isopropyl alcohol, o- and m-ethyltoluene, 2-butanone, 3-butanone, 1-butanol, 2-propanol, 3-propanol, 2-butanone acetate, and ethyl acetate, and the adsorbed

VOCs by using Tenax cartridges. The concentrations of VOCs in the gas phase and on surfaces were evaluated under various traffic conditions in two automobiles, an old model car and a new model car. The results show that the total amount of VOCs in the gas phase and on surfaces increased with the amount of driving. Moreover, the VOCs detected were different in different parts of the interior and exterior of the two cars.2. Use a pencil to sketch or draw a design on the back of a sheet of white
